Letter of Reference for Ms. Carla-Marlene Schäfer

09.02.2026

Ms. Carla-Maria Schäfer completed the modul Business Ethics and Sustainability, which I taught, during her bachelor's degree in Business Psychology at Fresenius University of Applied Sciences in Heidelberg. I was also the primary supervisor for her bachelor's thesis, in which she analyzed communicative methods and strategies in transformation processes and explored, through qualitative research, what effective, connectable and credible communication in transformative contexts can look like.

In both teaching contexts, I found Ms. Schäfer to be an extremely committed student who, on the basis of above-average expertise, is able to transfer theories to specialist ad professional fields of application. In the context of business ethics and sustainability she analyzed greenwashing in a very reflective and structured manner using various ethical positions such as discourse ethics and derive valid recommendations to action for corporate practice.

Her awareness of future-oriented needs and strategies for successful transformation was once again evident in her excellent bachelor's thesis. Based on a differentiated analysis of the polarity between cognitive reporting and emotional storytelling, she used her methodological expertise to generate relevant factors for a convergent communication method, thereby outlining a current field of research.

I would also like to mention Ms. Schäfer's outstanding social skills. These were evident in her successful team building in participatory teaching formats.
I consider Ms. Schäfer to be a highly motivated and reliable person. I can recommend her unreservedly for new or additional tasks, especially in the context of change und transformation issues.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Dr. Rainer Nübel
Professor for Media and Communication Management

INTERNSHIP CERTIFICATE

Ms. Carla-Marlene Schäfer completed an internship at Peng Peng! GmbH in Wiesbaden from August 4, 2025 to August 29, 2025.

Peng Peng! GmbH is a creative transformation consultancy that supports companies in shaping change holistically – with a particular focus on corporate culture, communication, strategy, and the integration of new and established ways of thinking.

During her internship, Ms. Schäfer was involved in various projects and gained insights into the strategic and creative work of our agency. Her responsibilities included in particular:

- Supporting conceptual development processes, conducting research tasks, providing AI support, and assisting in project management
- Creating PowerPoint presentations for conceptual and strategic content
- Analyzing client briefings and deriving initial conceptual insights
- Drafting text elements for strategic and communication purposes
- Providing editorial support in the areas of corporate culture, internal communication, and strategy
- Travel planning, administrative tasks, location research, and feasibility assessments

Ms. Schäfer integrated very well into the team within a short period of time and consistently demonstrated a high level of commitment, reliability, and initiative. She carried out the tasks assigned to her with great care and creativity and, through her structured and open way of working, made a valuable contribution to ongoing projects.

We sincerely thank her for her support and wish Ms. Schäfer all the best and every success in her future professional career.
